Suspect arrested in nail salon robbery and attack

By Steve Marschke

Two victims of an assault and robbery at a West Capitol Ave. nail salon have picked a suspect out of a police lineup, and local police say the man will be charged.

Benny Lewis Jackson, 52, of North Highlands, was arrested by sheriff's deputies in Sacramento last week.

"The Sacramento County Sheriff's Department arrested him last Tuesday, and he is being charged with robbery and kidnapping," said Detective Dave Duckett of the West Sacramento Police Department. "He was arrested after trying to kidnap a female alone in a business. there were witnesses there who called 9-1-1 and the Sacramento Sheriff's office responded."

Jackson was allegedly armed with a handgun during that incident.

Police on both sides of the river believe he may be responsible for three similar incidents involving hair and nail salons in Sacramento and West Sacramento.

On Feb. 12, a man fitting Jackson's general description entered the West Sacramento nail salon on the 2300 block of West Capitol Ave. during business hours -- brandishing a gun -- and robbed the place, sexually assaulting a female employee and a female customer. The incident lasted nearly a half-hour before the suspect walked back out the door.

On Feb. 22, a similar incident occurred at a Northgate Blvd. salon in Sacramento, and on Feb. 27 a third such incident took place on Marysville Blvd.

Duckett said the two West Sacramento victims identified Jackson in a police lineup yesterday as the man who assaulted them.

"They looked at him and they indicated they thought he was the person who did it," said Duckett. "He is going to be charged in our case. The gun is being fingerprinted."

Duckett said he has interviewed Jackson.

"He has not made any admission about the crimes."

Award ceremony leaves RC with new pennant

Representatives of the local Washington Unified School District took a road trip last week to visit San Diego and pick up the official banner commemmorating River City High School's selection as a "California Distinguished School."

The award was based on the high school's curricular and extra-curricular activities and other factors, and was sponsored by the state's education department. The flag will fly above River City High.

The group received the California Distinguished School Award on Friday.

Police seek identity of woman found in Sacto river

The body of an unidentified woman was pulled from the Sacramento River on Saturday, and investigation of her identity and death continues, said Detective Ray Hensley of the West Sacramento Police Department.

The woman appeared to have been in the water for at least three weeks. The body was spotted on the West Sacramento side of the river near the Sacramento River's junction with the American River.

'Pebble-sized' hail pelts West Sacto -- in late May?

You didn't dream it.

It hailed this week, in between perfectly innocent sunny skies.

A number of West Sacramento residents reported waking to the sound of hail around 2:30 a.m. Monday -- an unusual occurrance for the Sacramento area in late May.

One resident reported waking up to a sound "like someone throwing rocks" at his home and roof. Various people reported hail between "gravel" and "pebble" size littering their yards before it melted.

Former Third Street billiards hall owner makes a new investment:

Security will be high, says billiards promoter

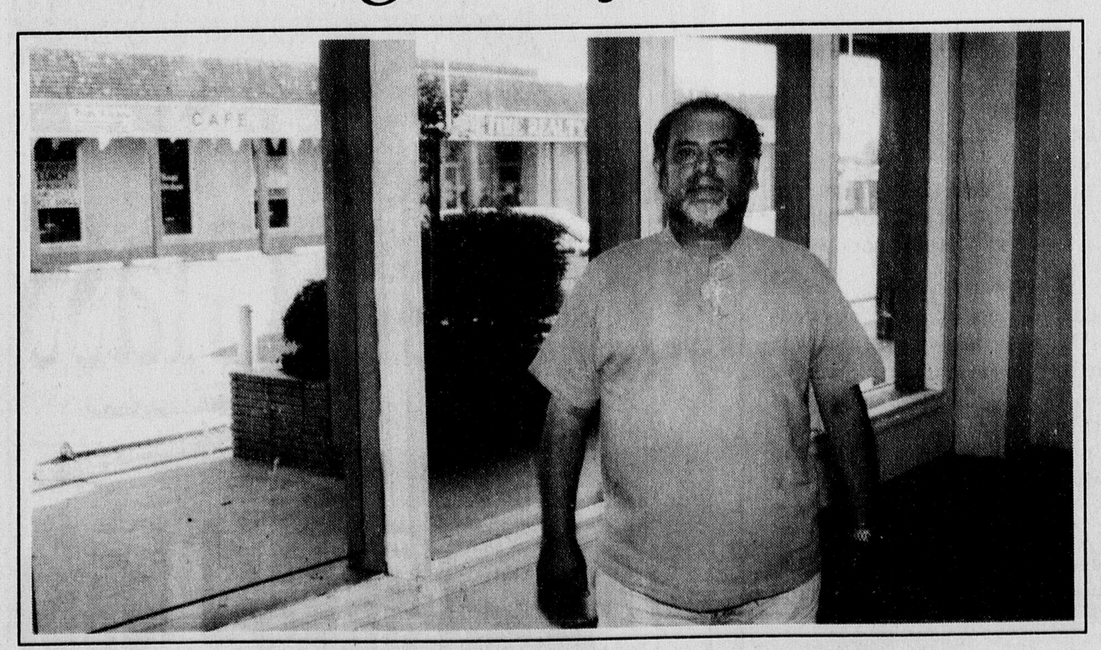
■ Billiards hall owner believes new business will help bring foot traffic to the troubled Riverbend Shopping Center in West Sacramento's "Broderick" area, but some residents believe it will bring trouble

By Steve Marschke

A famous theater character in "The Music Man" once pointed out that the "p" in "pool" rhymes with "t" which stands for "trouble."

But Jose Sandoval, who hopes to build a billiards center in the Riverbend Shopping Center on Sacramento Ave., believes that the "b" in "billiards" rhymes with "d" -- which stands for "dollars."

"The other businesses around here can't wait for this to go in," said Sandoval on Tuesday. "Mr. Engstrom (the landlord) said that this place is getting dead. A place like this is going to make it look alive."



JOSE RAMON SANDOVAL inside the former courtroom which he hopes to turn into a billiards hall

If approved by the city (the proposal goes before the West Sacramento Planning Commission on June 6), the new billiards hall will be called "Mr. Cue Billiards and Grill," or some related name, said Sandoval.

Several residents have expressed concern that the pool hall will attract loitering, drug trafficking and other problems, which were also associated with a billiards center formerly owned by Sandoval on Third Street, near the Tower Bridge.

But Sandoval maintains that it was the location near the riverfront which attracted problems to the Third St. site. The Riverbend location (in an office suite formerly housing a local Yolo Co. court branch) is better, he said.

"98 percent of the problems were from the bad location," said Sandoval. "In that field and near the river there were a hundred people sleeping there sometimes."

A major plus at the new site, said Sandoval, is that the billiards center will share a hallway with the shopping center's security office. That proximity, combined with an open floor plan which will give the billiards center's management a good view of what's going on inside, should help keep down undesirable activities.

Sandoval bought the Third St. billiards hall in 1989, and ran it until it closed in 1994.

Sandoval said he has invested over $75,000 in the project. His proposal goes before the planning commission at 6 p.m. on Thursday, June 6, where he hopes to receive a conditional use permit for the business.

Both the city planning commission and police department are scrutinizing his application, although they have not announced their recommendations on the permit.

Smoot visits an Important Civic Event

T.J. Smoot

Last week my contact in Broderick informed me the day the Money Store was having its groundbreaking ceremony. I was pretty jazzed, so I called the Redevelopment Agency at City Hall (which is so out of the way that no one can find it without a map, a compass, and an Australian outback guide), and had a delightful conversation with the woman there. We shared in this monumental success story and hoped that other supporting investors and businesses would soon pop up around Raley's Landing (no, the "Family Billiard Center" was not mentioned in our conversation). So in my happiness about this new business coming to town, I made plans to ride by there on my way home from work.

Later that day, I traversed the dangerous Capitol Mall Parkway on my lean green bike machine and pedaled on the north sidewalk of the Tower bridge until I found a gap in the fence which led to a cow path that meandered onto the Money Store property. Off in the distance I saw the test pylons and the awnings where the celebration was staged. I rode over bumpy hill and dale toward my destination, and as I stopped, I spied off to the side, a smartly dressed individual sporting sunglasses and a beeper. He stood there staring at me. I think he was Dirty Harry. Actually, he looked more like a Dirty George. So I'll call him George. He stared me down with probable cause, most likely because of my appearance and entrance into this gathering. I was dressed in a buttoned down, long-sleeved white shirt (ok, so it could have used a few passes with a hot iron. I was in a hurry that morning), no tie (it was in my backpack), mustard brown Haggard slacks, black wingtips, and big shiny goofy-looking bike helmet.I looked around, and no one else had come on a bike.

One lady drove up in an old red compact and got out. I smiled nicely at her. She looked at, then through me. Parking my bike anyway, I took off my helmet and noticed that there were only a half dozen folks milling around. Lots of foo-foo bags were scattered around, filled with that iridescent, clear, crinkly paper, probably presents for each construction worker having worked thus far on the site. They also had a generous supply of bubbly champagne on display. It was a nice set-up with green (the color of money) astroturf under the awning, leading off to some parking lot. Figuring the only person interested in my arrival was the secret service agent, George, I walked purposely toward him and, commented, "Hi, is this an invitation only event?"

"Yes," was the flat reply. It was a good thing I didn't flinch, swat at a mosquito, or quickly brush my hair back because he looked like he was ready to either itch his nose or take a swing at the derelict in front of him (But I was safe...I had glasses on).

"Hmmm. Where's the Golden Spike?" I offered, trying hard NOT to look like a rail-rider hobo.

"This was a groundbreaking ceremony. There was no Golden Spike," George said.

"I know..." was all I could get out.

"There was a PLATINUM shovel, though," he grinned, as he leaned toward me just a hair, breaking character a tinsy weensy bit.

"Oh." I nodded and smiled. [awkward silence]

"...and you just missed the event." George made sure to add. [more awkward silence]

"Oh." George's charisma worked like a charm, and at this point I felt about as uncomfortable as a corn kernel in a hot, oiled pan. Maybe he saw me looking at the bubbly stuff, thinking that I would lunge after a bottle and race off back over that same bumpy hill and dale, around the pylons, along the cow path and through the little gap in the fence at a breakneck three miles per hour. Had George known that the last time I really drank any bubbly stuff was over five years ago on my wedding night, he might have been relieved. That was the night I put most of a bottle of bubble bath in the jacuzzi bathtub (instead of two capfuls) and had really lots and lots of bubbles, more than I could use, actually. Well, anyway, I sipped some champagne from a glass, and since it didn't taste like Dr. Pepper, I didn't finish it. I had other things on my mind...like draining and refilling the bathtub with the proper amount of bubble bath. Well, the point is George could have relaxed at the teetotaler in his presence.

Anyway, realizing that I had no invitation in my backpack, none was offered, and no one was offering me a directorship at the Money Store, I wished George and the gala event "happy trails" and boogied back over dale and hill at a rip roaring three miles per hour.

We Smoots ran an errand later that evening after I was over my less-than-reunion-like welcome at the groundbreaking extravaganza event of the year. Driving home on the W-X freeway, I noticed a horizontally jagged cloud above West Sacramento. What caught my eye was that somehow there was a strip of rainbow only on the cloud. "Cool," I thought. How appropriate. (Well, the cloud and rainbow stripe were closer to Southport than Raley's Landing, but I think it was close enough). Who would think the "pot of gold" at the end of the rainbow would look like a building?

The Sports Insider

The Chicago Bulls swept the injury-riddled Orlando Magic, and now await the winner of the Utah/Seattle series. The Sonics should dispose of the Jazz on Tuesday night (before our press time), but if they don't, they should win this best-of-seven series later on this week. The Sonics posted 64 wins this season, second only to the Bulls' 72 wins. This has the makings of a great series.

The Bulls are on a mission with Michael Jordan, Scotty Pippen and Dennis Rodman to prove that the are the NBA's all-time best team!

The Sonics and Bulls split their two game series this year, with each team winning at home.

The Bulls in six games!

The Giants suffered a major blow to their offense machine when right fielder Glenallen Hill fractured his left wrist diving for a ball. Hill was playing his best ball of the season, batting .390 (23-59) over the last 16 games. To replace Hill, the Giants recalled the hottest hitter in the PCL, outfielder Dan Peltier, who was batting .372 for Class AAA Phoenix. The Giants head back east this week to play New York, Montreal and Cincinatti.

The A's are still losing, but did you know that Mark McGwire has reached base by a walk or a hit in all 29 of his starts this year? Or that McGwire's last home run gave the A's 8,999 home runs in their franchise history (1901-96)? That's the only good news for the slumping A's.

The Sacramento Scorpions beat the Chico Rooks 1-0 last Saturday at Woodcreek Field in Roseville. Next home game is Friday, May 31, against the Reno Rattlers. Game time is 7:30 p.m. at Woodcreek Field.

See ya next week!!

Swimmers have a deal for you

The West Sacramento Dolphins will participate in a Lap-A-Thon at the River City High School swimming pool on Wednesday, June 5, between 4:30 and 7:30 p.m.

The team is looking for sponsors to support swimmers on a per-lap basis as they accept the challenge of swimming as many lengths of the 25-yard pool as possible in a one-hour period. As a sponsor, you may also choose to offer just a one-time straight donation. The swimmer's efforts have been offered to aid in the fundraising of the West Sacramento Dolphins Swim Team.

OPINION

News-Ledger Editorial:

Play ball

It isn't the major leagues, but it is real baseball.

While Sacramento Mayor Joe Serna and his colleagues pursue their new dream of building a major league baseball park at the Southern Pacific railyards site north of their downtown -- and attracting a team like the Oakland A's to play in it -- West Sacramento has landed a pretty good amateur squad of its own.

Locals will have a chance to watch "Los Guantes" play their first West Sacramento game on June 9 at Bryte Park.

They are sure to get some strong support from their new hometown, which has strong traditions in little league and high school hardball.

Meanwhile, hold onto your collective civic wallet as Mayor Serna pursues "regional funding" for his "regional sports facility." He believes surrounding areas should chip in to make the ballpark a reality, since a pro team will have region-wide benefits.

Not a bad idea. . . as long as Serna is willing to help West Sacramento pay for the costs involved in building bridges across the regional port, which is located here. The bill for those costs, which really ought to be shared by the region, will reach well into the tens of millions of dollars.

The Business Journal in Sacramento reports two items of interest.

One is that a local coalition including Sacramento representatives and the West Sacramento Chamber of Commerce is close to making a "water taxi" service a reality. The group's boat would serve tourists and commuters along various points on the Sacramento River, and might ultimately ferry people between Sacramento and new development in West Sacramento (such as the Money Store offices being built at Raley's Landing).

The other is that the idea of building an aquarium to attract tourist dollars to the region is now being floated towards the West Sacramento side of the river. The Journal states that the powers promoting this idea are examining the "Triangle" area between the Pioneer Bridge and Tower Bridge in West Sacramento.

That's an idea we should not spend a lot of time or money on. If it is a private venture, then good luck. But with plenty of other aquariums available to the California public -- including a new one in San Francisco -- it's quite possible that the public has reached aquatic overload, and the idea is too risky to be worth a great deal of public investment.

We've been bitten by "pie in the sky" ideas before.

Memorial Day for California's fallen law enforcement officers

By California Attorney General Daniel E. Lungren

"Officer kills fleeing teenager."

"Probe of police rampage implicates only seven officers."

"Cop probed in theft of drug money."

"Did cops aid coke dealers?"

"Cop accused of stealing from arrestee."

"Police accused in beating."

Seven of California's major newspapers ran these and more than 600 headlines like them in 1995. Undoubtedly, such incidents are newsworthy and demand attention.

There were other headlines about police officers in 1995 as well:

"Farewell to an officer, colleagues gather to celebrate the life of Gabriel Perez-Negron."

"Slain officer's widow mourns her 'hero,' denounces his killer."

"Teary farewell to slain cop."

"Family mourns slain Oakland cop; rookie had been set to marry soon."

"Cop mistaken for suspect is killed; friendly fire downs officers during hostage crisis."

These, however, ran less than 100 times in the same seven newspapers.

Thanks, restaurants!

I wanted to thank the Lighthouse Country Club, Salsa Mexican Restaurant, Vince's Ristorante, Baker's Square, Carol's Restaurant and Huey's Diner in West Sacramento for participating in this year's Mother's Day Campaign for Alcohol, Tobacco and Drug Free Pregnancy. This year 32 restaurants participated throughout Yolo County. This public awareness campaign in an effort to call attention to the problems which can result from the use of alcohol, tobacco and other drugs during pregnancy and while breast feeding.

Please show your support by patronizing these restaurants and mentioning the Mother's Day Campaign.

For businesspeople

This letter is dedicated to the self-employed of West Sacramento and its surrounding community.

Every week someone writes a letter to the editor blasting some local businessman , business leader or public service. We should think about what life in West Sacramento would be like without some of our local entrepreneurs like Arthur Turner; Bill and Frank Ramos and their sons; Jim Cameron; Vince Frugoli; The Davis Brothers; Tom Carpenter; The Hart Family; Sal Romeo; John Zonneveld; or Tom Raley just to name a few. Local men and women who put everything they own on the line just to do business in West Sacramento. Every day they are audited, regulated, permitted, taxed and inspected beyond belief -- the average person would just give up! While some people would just prefer to do nothing, or study things to death, our local businesspeople are providing literally thousands of jobs that feed families and create the immeasurable tax dollars that some of us so love to spend -- example: bus service (excuse me, I just had to put that in). How many jobs have you created, Mr. Lowell? Possibly the News-Ledger could begin to honor some of these hard working individuals go that they might become mentors to the community and our children might want to become the job providers of the future.

JOHN LUCAS

Gated neighborhood

In an apparent desperation move to begin selling their overpriced lots, Lighthouse (without the Marina) now plans to become a "gated community" within our little City of West Sacramento.

When development finally pans out in Lighthouse, the rest of us can pat ourselves on the back for financing their infrastructure so that Lighthouse will be a safer place to live than the rest of our City.

No doubt more gated communities are sprouting up or are resulting from modifications not from just the Sacramento area, but throughout our State and Nation. Factor this in with increasing use of home and business alarm systems and what do we have? We have increasing evidence that we have become prisoners of our own society! Couple that with the avalanche of early parolee releases and those deliberately "not sentenced" for lack of jail and prison space, we're seeing more and more of the wrong people "behind bars!" Yes, too many law-abiding citizens are experiencing the restriction that the "bad folks" should be living by.

We must re-examine our correctional system and instead of releasing so many too early and not sentencing too many, Big Brother must begin assisting communities in creating a new breed of NIMBY's ("not in my back yard"): Gated "sub-communities" in selected locations of various counties -- where they would appreciate the financial "shot in the arm" provided by the spending-power economics of such taxpayer-supported entities more than they would be disturbed by having the "gated wrongdoers" housed nearby.

Even at medium or minimum security, such new jails or prisons should begin to turn things around: Our streets should become safer again with far fewer pre-mature releases for wrongdoers.

The bottom line: Where do the extra security gates belong? Who belongs "behind bars?"

RC office will never be the same

By Jessica Honsinger
Staff Writer

If you have ever gone into the office (and who hasn't?), you've seen them. They are the pillars of the school. After June 7, though, their faces will be gone from RC forever. Vice Principal's secretary Ms. Joyce Kurpershoek and Attendance clerk Ms. Lois Silva are retiring.

Ms. Kurpershoek has been at RC for nine years. Before she came here, she worked elsewhere in the district for over 20 years. All nine years that she's been here, Ms. Kurpershoek has been a secretary. That means that she's seen some strange things. The strangest, she recalled, was also the scariest. "Kids that had been brought in for fighting kept on fighting," she said. "One of them kept trying to attack the other." After she retires, Ms. Kurpershoek will be taking it easy, and may possibly be doing some volunteer work.

All eight years that Ms. Silva has been at RC, she has been the attendance clerk. "That's why it's in such good shape!" she said with a laugh. Of course, she has heard her share of odd excuses for why we were late to school, the most unbelievable one being, "The bus didn't pick me up." (I think "I missed the bus would be infinitely more believable!) Ms. Silva says that after she retires, all she'll do is relax.

Both Ms. Silva and Ms. Kurpershoek say that out of everything at RC, they'll miss us, the students, the most. I think that we'll miss them as well.

Ms. Mihanovich goes to South America

By Carolina Avina
Staff Writer

How would you like to take an educational field trip, study the outdoors, and gather important information, while having fun? Well, Ms. Mihanovich will have that opportunity. She will be the envy of all teachers when she takes time off from the everyday work of a classroom and joins a group of geological researchers on an all-expense-paid trip to Peru.

Two years ago Mrs. Cook from Golden State gave Ms. Mihanovich a flier about the University Research Expeditions program at UC Berkeley. It was not until this year that she decided to apply. She wrote a proposal and was accepted.

The expedition is to take samples of rocks and soil that lie on the continental margins, the point where South America and North America meet. Ms. Mihanovich says, "I'll be running a drill, which will be lots of fun. You get to get real dirty." The researchers, who will be people from all over the nation, will bring the information back to the United States and present it in some way.

The trip will last two weeks and all Ms. Mihanovich had to pay was the airline ticket. What a deal! She will travel by mule while in Peru. Since the Andes, where she will be spending most of her time, are 13,000 feet above sea level, there is no way she could drive up and down those huge mountains. Ms. Mihanovich is really looking forward to the trip. She said "I've never been to South America. It's pretty exciting. It will be quite an adventure."

In the meantime, Mrs. Mihanovich is going through some pain trying to prepare for her expedition. She has gotten a tetanus shot, she will get a gammaglobulin shot which she says is really supposed to hurt, and a hepatitis shot, and has pills for malaria and yellow fever. Although her wardrobe is not suffering at all, Ms. Mihanovich has had to buy some new clothes. She said, "Peru has weird weather. It's either too cold or too hot, so I have to buy clothes for summer and winter."

These programs in which people get to go to other countries to do studies are nationwide, and anybody can apply to do this.

"I've never been to South America. It's pretty exciting. It will be an adventure."

River City was in the spotlight once again on May 22, at the Greater Sacramento Area BEST Fifth Annual Awards banquet. Two $500 BEST Senior Scholarships were awarded, and two lucky RC seniors, Shafak Pervez and Kammy Ujagar, were the winners.

"I am very proud of myself," said Kammy Ujager. "All those hours of filling out scholarship forms have finally paid off," she continued excitedly.

"I was proud that only RC students got scholarships out of all the other schools," Shafak Pervez said.

Another River City student, Mike Vasquez, received a $500 scholarship from Sac. State's Minority Engineering Program (MEP).

"I was very surprised to win this most prestigious scholarship from MEP. I was overwhelmed with joy," said Mike Vasquez.

Other BEST members recognized were Jayson Gawthorpe for spirit of BEST, Sean High for academic achievement, Nilesh Patel for science creativity, and Shafak Pervez for leadership.

River City Best members cheered for their clubmates. They all were so ecstatic because RC made a clean sweep.

Byard breaks homerun record: RC GEL champs

By Khaled Dastagirzada

Junior Randy Byard has set a new RC homerun record of seven in the 1996 season. The former record of five was set in 1979 by Phil Herman. "It feels great to break such a record," Randy said.

"It was very exciting for me, as his Coach. I was very proud of this event," said Coach La Forte. It was a great year.

The baseball team closed out the season as league champions with the record of 13-10 (12-2 league). "It was one of the most exciting seasons I have ever had the pleasure of coaching," said Coach La Forte.

A major event that helped RC come into first place was the defeat of the Encina Bulldogs. "The game against Encina was a surprise in the beginning. It was a championship game for us. They took the lead in the first couple of innings but we knew that they couldn't stop the champs, so we came out hitting the ball and took the lead. We won and we had the championship in our hands, in our hands," said Jimmy Timas.

Their first playoff game was against Dixon HS and the outcome of that game was a 4-3 score in favor of RC. Their second opponent was the Vanden Vikings in the semi-final round. This was a high scoring game that RC lost 18-5.

Another RC team accomplished another great goal--becoming the Golden Empire League Champions.

RC tennis GEL champions: first time since 1984

By Khaled Dastagirzada
Staff Writer

The tennis team was the most successful team in the Golden Empire League making them the GEL champions this year with the record of 20-1 (11-1 league). "We've had an excellent season," said Coach Dave Brooks. There was no need for any more comments. After all, their record speaks for itself. This was the best record in all of RC tennis history and their first league championship since the 1984 season when Coach Dave Brooks played.

The tennis team had a bye for the first round of the playoffs. In the second round, they played St. Helena HS which is one of the best high school tennis teams. Ahmad Fazel and Ty Fisher were the only ones to win their match. "We played pretty well but they were tough," said Fazel.

"One of the kids that I played, his father was like a pro," said Bounthay Bouttavong.

The tennis team accomplished an amazing goal becoming league champions and we're proud of our RC tennis team.

Softball team makes its way to the playoffs

Khaled Dastagirzada
Staff Writer

It was a good feeling for the softball team to defeat the Lincoln Zebras and knock them out of the playoff race. Last year the Zebras did the same to RCHS when River City was one game away from making the playoffs so revenge was sweet.

"We accomplished one goal this season which was to make the playoffs, but unfortunately we didn't become the league champions," said softball Coach Tim Hannagan.

Three girls made it to the All-Team: Selena Flores, Tina Woods, and Sarah Vanderford. The two honorable mentions were Mary Vela and Cynthia Rodriguez.

The softball team went into the playoffs with high hopes, but #2 seed Houghson H.S. hoped to stop the RC ladies on Saturday the 18th in the first round.

The only hit of the game for RC was by Cynthia Rodriguez but that didn't put any points on the board. Houghson only had one hit, also, but unfortunately that hit was a homerun. Selena Flores pitched a great game but just one bad pitch cost the RC girls the game. "Selena pitched an excellent game," said Coach Hannagan.

"We had a good season and any time that a team makes the playoffs, means that they had a successful season," said Coach Hannagan. Coach Hannagan wanted everyone to know that the season ended happily ever after but it could have ended even better.

Raider of the Month Editor becomes Raider of the Month

Tennis champ , Mirthala Santizo , is chosen by peers.

By Fouzia Fazel
Staff Writer

Senior Mirthala Santizo finally accepted the honor of Raider of the Month, after being prodded by her colleagues in Leadership.

Mirthala is a hard working student who spends her afternoon hours playing tennis. She is the number one player on the tennis team and number two player in the GE league. She loves playing tennis, because of its competitiveness.

Despite her busy schedule, Mirthala also participates in many extra-curricular activities such as Leadership, CSF, Key Club, Renaissance, and Journalism. Her classes include AP English, Physics, Honors Econ, Leadership, Calculus, TA Higgins and Journalism.

Her most memorable moment at River City is "beating Bear River when they came to our courts."

She will be attending UC Davis next fall, majoring in biology and, she hopes, playing tennis.

Mirthala enjoys listening to alternative and 70's rock music. Her favorite bands are the Cranberries and Bush. Her favorite song is "American Pie."

When asked how she feels about leaving RC, she said, "I'm happy, because I am getting out of high school, but sad because I'll miss everybody."

Magic is in the air at RC tournament

By Khaled Dastagirzada
Staff Writer

ASB sponsored RC's first ever Magic tournament in the month of May.

Magic is a complicated, competitive, collectible, and fun card game. I have tried to learn it and found it was quite difficult to grasp. Yet to many others it's easy. "It's a complicated game but you will learn it after playing it a few times," said Jason Potnick, a judge of the Magic tournament.

The winner of the tournament would receive a Magic card worth $70. "It gives the kids a chance to compete in an activity on campus. There is no gambling and no religion involvement," said Ms. Johnson, activity director.

The easiest way to think of the game is to imagine "wizards on separate hills trying to cast spells at each other," said Potnick. The object of the game is to defeat your opponent by casting spells, attacking them with animals and even turning your opponents' animals against themselves.

28 players began the tournament. From early lunch Aaron Potnick and A.J. Kanelos advanced to the quarter finals and from late lunch Joey Mejia and Calvin Bell advanced. Aaron and A.J. had a good match going, but AJ finally put Aaron out of his misery which put AJ into the finals. Joey did to Calvin what AJ did to Aaron. Now there remained only two wizards on top of those hills and they were AJ Kanelos and Joey Mejia. Just as two great wizards would battle, so did these two finalists. Finally, after an adventurous era of casting spells, Joey Mejia came out the champion-the Grand Wizard of RC.

Juniors win scholarship money for essays and speeches

By Judith Zaragoza

Judit Campos and Alonzo Garcia are two dedicated juniors who won scholarships for their communication skills this year. Alonzo won an audio essay contest and Judit won a speech contest.

"I was very nervous," said Alonzo Garcia, who won a $200.00 scholarship from Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW). His topic was Answering America's Call; he won at the local level. Alonzo says he could have done better if he had had more experience. His essay and tape were sent to Kansas City where it was judged. He plans to participate again next year. "I think they gave people an opportunity to experience, to be in a different audience; I didn't think I would win, but after all I felt honored." The hardest part for Alonzo was when he had to read his essay at a VFW dinner.

For Judit Campos, it was a nice and surprising experience, since she got the opportunity to not only give a speech but also got to talk about her family life and how many other people helped her life be more worth it. The speech contest was held at Casa de los Ninos where she competed against four other schools. Judit won $100.00 at the local level from Rotary International. Her topic was Act with Integrity, Serve with Love, Work for Peace. Judy said, "One of my fears is the public, but I thank Ms. Green and Ms. Higgins for helping me out."

Many people are really proud of Alonzo and Judit because to give a speech to an unknown audience and speak with sureness and intelligence is not very easy at all. The judging in each event was pretty hard.

Country boy is RC Raider of the Month

By Mirthala Santizo
Staff Writer

Who gets the honor of being the last boy Raider of the Month of the '96 year? It's Senior L.J. Hughes.

L.J. played football for RC. He likes football because he says it's one of the few sports that you're allowed to hit people. "It's a total rush when you hit helmet," he said.

L.J. is also involved in yearbook. "You get to do something with the school and you have a say on something you'll keep for the rest of your life," he said. "Besides, the people in it are cool." L.J. was also in VICA last year.

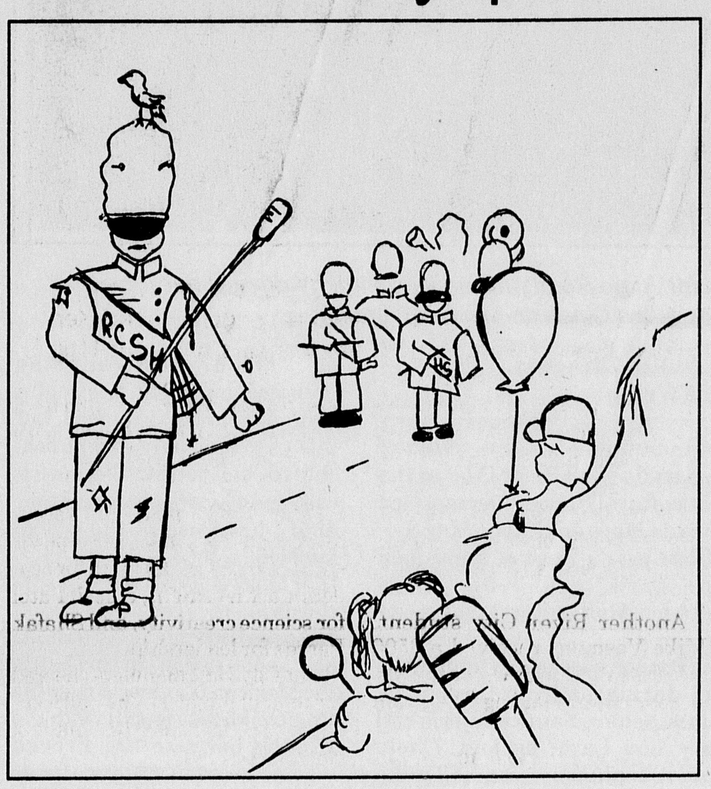
L.J. says the main aspect of his life is playing Q-Zar. He likes boogie boarding and jet skiing at Stinson Beach and Bodega Bay with his friend Anthony Rojo. L.J. also likes to go fishing with Anthony and David Jernigan. "I like all sport, anything active I enjoy doing," he said. His favorite lunchtime activity is playing Ultimate Frisbee in the quad with the upperclassmen guys.

Country is L.J.'s all-time favorite music. He also doesn't mind listening to any other music his friends are listening to. His favorite singers are Tim McGraw, Garth Brooks and Shania Twain.

L.J. has traveled to Florida, Georgia, and Texas. His favorite place is Texas. "It's because of the girls," he said, "I love them country girls."

L.J.'s classes include TA for Higgins, Math Analysis, Photography, Economics, Yearbook and Desktop Publishing.

Ugly band uniforms play down River City spirit



"Next up, the River City marching band."

By Carolina Avina
Staff Writer

What is up with the band's uniforms? Are they ugly or what? Not a very good fashion statement. The music department is fighting hard to get new band uniforms, and they need all the help they can get.

Since the school year started the music department has done a great deal to raise money to buy new uniforms. They've had car washes, t-shirt sales, bake sales at every concert, and even donations from students and parents, but still that is not enough. They need the support of the entire student body and the community. After all, they are representing River City as they are marching down the street.

The RC band uniforms have not been updated since 1979. Among some of the problems with them is the fact that they do not match. Some of the uniforms say RCHS (River City High School) and others say RCSH (River City Senior High). Tim Tackett, a band member, said, "Just look at them. They are ugly. They have buttons missing, the shoulder ropes are mismatched, and the zippers are rusted shut and broken. Did I say they were ugly?"

The hats, most commonly know as "Q-tips" by the band members, are totally not in fashion any more. Mrs. Henson, the Music Director, said that they aren't even manufactured by the company any more.

From the student body Mrs. Henson asks that we support the band in any possible form. Buy any stuff sold by them, attend their functions, or maybe just take our cars by their car-washes. In the meantime, she is working hard to get donations from local businesses and help from the school board.

"Eeeew, cooties!" A Westmore Oaks student can't believe her eyes to see Wendy Foster and Zach Williams get married at Carnival.

Teachers and students agree, RC needs to add speech classes in future

By Judith Zaragoza
Staff Writer

Alonzo and Judit, with many other students and teachers, agree that there should be a speech class on campus. "One of the biggest problems that many students face is to stand in front of an audience and give a speech," said Judit. Having a speech class would be a really great help to students and staff.

Many people think that a speech class would only help academically achieving students like Mock Trial or Academic Decathlon, but the truth is that it would help every student on campus who took this course. The class would help us students to stop the shaking, shyness and/or nervous breakouts.

"It's the whole deal of coming to school, to get a career", said Ms. Richey an English teacher for the sophomore class. In order to be successful in college and in the rest of your future you have to be able to be understood and express yourself, she explained.

Ms. Richey believes that there is a strong need for a speech class. After she had her students debate, she concluded that a speech class is needed.

"Its a goal I have", said Ms. Richey, who wants to be able to teach or at least have a speech class on campus.

Mr. Vaught has two sons, two stepsons, and two granddaughters. His wife is a registrar at Mesa Verde High School in the San Juan District.

Should juveniles be prosecuted as adults?

Prosecuting juveniles as adults is a bad idea. No, juveniles shouldn't be able to get away with criminal acts such as murder and theft. They should be punished, but not as adults. The juvenile justice system fulfills the government's role as a substitute parent when the real parents can't support the child mentally or physically. It was also set up to protect children from unjust punishment, preferring rehabilitation instead of punishment, trying to help the young people become useful citizens.

Rehabilitation needs to include removing the children from their surroundings, and giving them education, treatment, prevention, and a juvenile justice system that holds the children accountable for their acts. This would be their punishment. In doing this there will be a smaller percentage of juveniles committing more crimes than there would be if you sent them to an adult prison.

When a juvenile is locked in an adult prison and returns to the streets, they will be well along in the life and have no real job skills. Therefore, they will depend on society for the rest of their life and may go back to their old ways of committing crime. So for the people who believe money for rehabilitation is an issue, think again. If we help the juveniles now they still can be taught to have morals, and become proud, educated young adults, with job skills that will help them and others in the future.

Adoption: who has the right to be a parent?

49,000 children are currently in foster care. There aren't that many heterosexual couples out there to adopt all these children. So, why not let homosexual couples adopt these children?

If homosexual couples are going to be good parents then let them have a loving family, too. These foster kids should have the right to be loved.

Some heterosexual couples abuse their children. Children being abused need to get out of their abusive homes and be in loving ones. If there are homosexual couples that aren't abusive then they should be able to adopt the children. A loving home is better than no home. There should be no discrimination against homosexual couples.

Is River City segregated?

In 1954 the Supreme Court ruled in the case of Brown v. Board of Education that segregation in public schools is unconstitutional. With this ruling public schools became integrated and different ethnic groups began to interact with one another in the classroom, but outside the classroom it was a different story.

In the 42 years since this ruling students have been interacting with one another; however, they prefer to socialize with students of their own race. This voluntary segregation limits the opportunity to learn about other ethnic groups.

Many people would say that these students are showing ethnic pride by interacting with students from their own race. However, this practice isolates students from experiencing what other ethnic groups besides their own have to offer them as individuals.

A suggestion to integrate the students at River City is to have a multi-cultural week. This week would have a different culture examined every day. One day it could be Russian and the next could be Mexican. This activity should help students examine all the different cultures on our campus.

When students stop segregating themselves by their ethnicity and begin interacting with students from different ethnic groups, then their education will expand and the Brown decision will be fulfilled. Because education is not just books, but is also the experiences of everyday life which help us to grow.

Ideas for beach reading
Summer book suggestions

By Rishi Sharma
Staff Writer

Are you looking forward to a long, boring summer in your house? If you are, I have the perfect way for you to pass the time. Read! No, I am not kidding. Reading offers a fun and exciting way to learn. By reading, you can explore anything in the world, or even the universe. Reading takes you to places that even an airplane can't. Now, having read most of my life, I can recommend a few good books. Please remember that not everyone has the same taste in books.

If you are into the dramatic stuff, then do I have a book for you. It is called The Queen's Confession by Victoria Holt. This dramatic book recounts the life one of the most notorious French queens, Marie Antoinette. Explore the young girl's innocent childhood in Austria. Follow her marriage to the dauphin of France, and her fall and eventual execution at the hands of the revolutionaries. You can probably find this book at the Arthur F. Turner library. If not, ask me. I have a copy.

If you like mystery novels, I have a whole series for you. They are the Arly Hanks mysteries by Joan Hess. They are all about a chief of police in a rural Arkansas town called Maggody, and the strange, yet entertaining events which go on in this small town. Not only to do they have great plots and story lines, but real pretty covers with nice colors. All of the books have Maggody in the title. The titles are Malice in Maggody, Mischief in Maggody, Much Ado in Maggody, Mortal Remains in Maggody, Maggody in Manhattan, O'Little Town of Maggody, and Martians in Maggody. I have to admit that I haven't read all these books, but the ones I've read, I have liked. If you have any trouble finding the books, come find me, I have most of them.

Another book series I would highly recommend is the "The Chronicles of Narnia." This great collection of seven books recounts the story of an imaginary nation called Narnia, where the powers of good and evil are in a constant battle. The books in this series are: The Lion, the Witch, and the Wardrobe, Prince Caspian, The Voyage of the Dawn Treader, The Silver Chair, The Horse and His Boy, The Magician's Nephew, and The Last Battle. Follow the beginning of the great land, the human kings and queens, the evil white witch, and the fall of the enchanted kingdom. Once again, I have a copy of most of these books in you can't find them.

I hope I have given you a good reading list for the summer. Don't forget to read any books that you are assigned for honors classes, and have fun exploring!

What will you do this summer?

By Jessica Honsinger
Staff Writer

Ah, summer! It's almost that time again. Time for staying up until 3:00 am and sleeping until noon. Most important, though, it means NO SCHOOL! YAY!

Of course, we all have our own plans for summer. For some, a summer job is what they want to do. For others, just hanging out in the sun is their plan. For me? Well, usually I increase my skin cancer risks and swim for the city team, but this year I'm doing something different. I'm going to Israel.

Yes, Israel. I'm spending a week in Jerusalem on a religious pilgrimage, and a week helping build a college and houses in the Christian Palestinian village of Ibilin. I am getting ready to go on a trip that will change my life, and my spirituality, forever.

Since Israel is a "hot spot" right now, a lot of people are really surprised when I tell them where I'm going. My (now ex-) boyfriend didn't want me to go at first, for fear that I might get hurt. For awhile, I wasn't even sure if I was going, since violence flared up in some areas. Since it has calmed down, though, the only thing that would block the trip is if the government issues a travel advisory. If they do that, I'll be very upset!

The trip in itself will be, how can I put this? It will be tiring! The delegation that I'm a part of leaves on a Sunday during church. After an overnight layover in Detroit, we leave for Amsterdam. That will be a long flight. I think it's almost twelve hours. Since there is an eight-hour layover in Amsterdam, we will do some sightseeing and visit the Anne Frank house. That will be spooky, especially since The Diary of Anne Frank is the only book that has made me cry. Ever. After the layover, we'll hop onto yet another plane towards our final destination.

The preparation for the trip is more extensive than I ever imagined it would be. We are studying and participating in different cultures and religions. We are reading articles and learning vocabulary faster than Ms. Carlisle's AP History class and Mr. Engoron's Honors English class combined. We have also gone to a service at a Jewish synagogue, which was a big change from the Protestant service that I'm used to.

So, it's almost time for the end of the school year. On June sixteenth, I leave for two weeks. If I don't see you before then, I hope you have a great summer vacation. I know I will.

Eggs have a falling out

Kristy Guerra
Staff Writer

Mr. Benning's physics class recently did an egg drop. The class was assigned to build a secure home for an egg, so if it was dropped it would not break. The home could not be bigger than 14 inches, and styrofoam could not be used. The competition was to see which home could keep the egg intact and weigh the least. The eggs were dropped from the top of the football bleachers.

Fourteen of 21 eggs survived. The lightest home, built by Senh Saelee, had inflated balloons surrounding the egg. It weighed three ounces. Wendy Wickliffe came in second, Shelly Taunk in third.

This project is also done in colleges. "The project teaches engineering, structure, and protection," said Mr. Benning. "It was pretty fun."

Cinco de Mayo brings spirit to RC

By Judith Zaragoza
Staff Writer

"Ajuuuuuuua" was the sound of some students at River City, as the Multicultural Club commemorated Cinco de Mayo on Friday, May 3.

"This year's festival had much more spirit," said Junior Jorge Melendez, Multicultural Club member.

The festival was held in front of the gym during both lunches. Lucy Ramos, senior, Sandra Solorio and Mary Lou Lara, juniors, Chela Arzola, sophomore, and Claudia Gaeta and Mayra Bravo, freshmen, performed a modern dance called Al Derecho y al Reves. Students from Elkhorn Elementary School also entertained with folkloric dances.

Junior Juan Guerra said, "It was better this year because it was held out in the quad, but the food didn't work out." Every year for the Cinco de Mayo festival the Multicultural Club has sold a main dish of Mexican food, but this year they only sold punch, churros and sabritas because it was kind of unorganized and they didn't have use of the school kitchen.

For Mexicans, this is a very special day to remember. On May 5, 1862, the battle of Puebla (Batalla de Puebla) began. In this battle the Mexican troops won over the French. Mexico fought with the French because the French wanted to conquer Mexico for its fertile land and rich metals. They were hoping to conquer it like Spain had. Fortunately, they didn't, because Mexico won the Battle of Puebla.

After a fun and busy day the Multicultural Club members were happy. They also had much fun going to Great America on May 11.

Armadillo (January) Cheer up buddy! Things will get better in a few days. Time heals all pain. I recently checked out your aura and found that your future is tremendously bright and even if you don't want to be happy something wonderful is going to hit you right in the face. You need a haircut, your friends are beginning to mistake you for Side Show Bob.

Monkey (February) Hey you, don't feel so guilty. You always strive to do the best for everyone else. Be proud of who you are. Eat the green M&M's. They will make you big and strong for the splishing and splashing you will be doing in a few weeks. You will regret a decision you made in April.

Dodo Bird (March) This weekend is your time to shine. Show consideration for your companion. You may look good, but only one person's opinion of you truly matters. A secret from your past will soon be revealed. Figure out how you will handle it. You will develop a sudden fascination with rolls. Eat as much as you want, but be prepared for the consequences. Don't stray too far down the beach.

Hyena (April) The time has come for a change of pace. Let go of bad habits that are getting in your way. A bright new face has entered your life. Take precautions and wear sunglasses. A grueling test is in your midst. No cheating...what will that accomplish? You might surprise yourself, as well as the people around you. Flash backs of "Where's the beef?" commercials will help you come to peace with the universe.

Yak (May) You've been real busy lately. You need to take some time for your friends and that special someone. They say absence makes the heart grow fonder, but you're overdoing it. You have plans this weekend, so don't flake out. You could miss out on your last chance, buddy! Mr. Belvedere will bring you nightmares.

Donkey (June) You are feeling left out this week. This is just temporary. The people around you are just really busy and need to deal with their responsibilities. Just remember, you are loved and loved dearly by a good friend. Don't listen to the little elf on your shoulder. He is a big fibber.

Blow Fish (July) You think that you are so cool. Don't be a fool. The time will come when you will see the future of what you will truly be. Don't be surprised if that one person won't talk to you. You're too cool for them anyway, right? Once you start acting your age people will be very different, and that one person might start to see you in a different light.

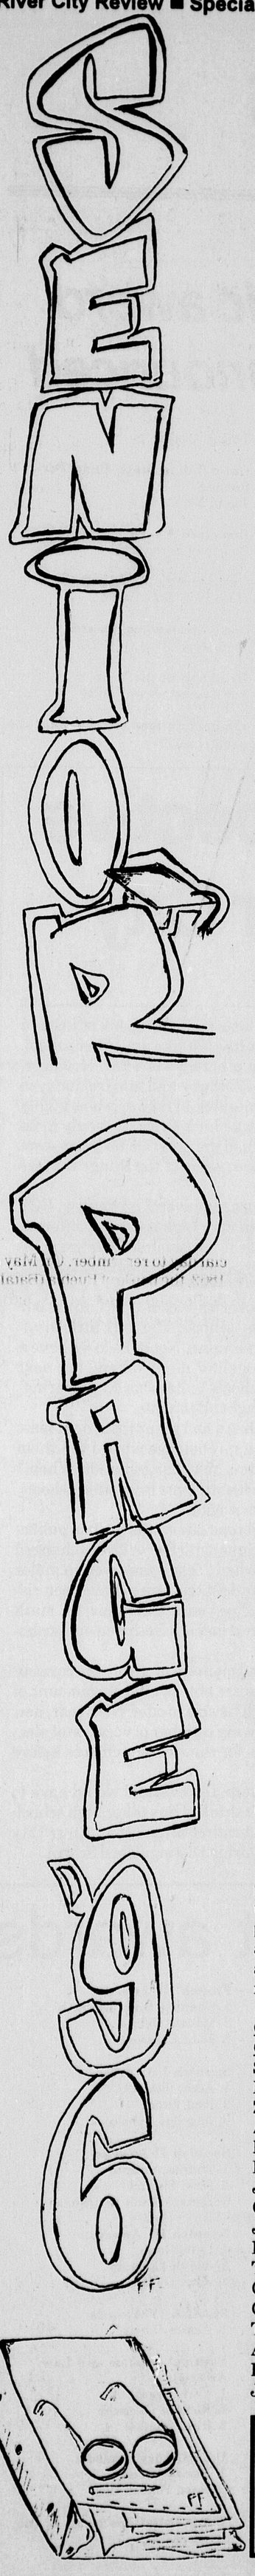
Toad (August) Things aren't going so great for you lately, but hang in there and they will get better. Don't let that one person get you down. There are others who would be happy to take their place. Don't be afraid of someone because maybe they were involved with a close friend. Get over it. That was a long time ago. A true friend won't mind. You have a complex.

Cockroach (September) Things are going good for you this month. Don't make any bad decisions that will jeopardize your good luck. You know right from wrong, even if the wrong seems right. Try not to run too much this weekend. There's a chance you might trip over yourself, roll down a hill, and land in something unpleasant in front of someone unexpected.

Slug (October) You are pushing yourself too hard. You know that this may cause you problems in the future. You have done a very naughty thing. You need to learn that a secret is no longer a secret if more than one person knows. Now you will be confronted by your worst nightmare. The skeleton is in the closet and there are monsters under your bed. Watch out!

Chicken (November) You are a really good person, but you are making a tragic mistake. If you have a problem with someone and feel you have to talk about it either be prepared to be confronted or keep your mouth shut. You're too smart to get yourself into that kind of trouble. If someone calls you "Pumpkinhead" take it as a compliment.

Sloth (December) You need to stop getting into other peoples' problems. I know you are only doing it to try to help, but you can gain enemies that way. Try something new this weekend. A night on the town could bring new light to your present situation. If you have strange dreams about the seven dwarfs, go to the doctor.



Seniors leave more than good memories behind

Compiled by Mirthala Santizo and Fouzia Fazel

It's that time again when the school year comes to an end and almost everyone is looking forward to summer vacation. Most of the students know that they will be seeing their best friends and teachers again next year, but for the class of 1996 this year might be the last time they will see their friends, classmates and teachers, so the senior class wanted to leave something behind to the underclassmen and teachers.

I, Sangita Patel, leave nothing to the underclassmen, because last year the seniors didn't leave us anything. Mrs. Higgins, I leave you my UC Bingo, take care of it.

I, Julie Kolar, leave all my good grades and self confidence, that you can do anything you put your mind to.

I, Senh Saelee, will to all underclassmen of R.C. integrity/desire to succeed and the courage to be an individual. Second, I will to RC my artistic license and infamous signature.

I, Heather Mayhew, leave my ability to whine to Mrs. Blount, our class spirit to all underclassmen. My jokes to Mr. Baker (you'll eventually laugh)! To the cheerleaders my ability to make faces in dances. And Kris, I have to leave you my height, the little I have. Bye, everyone.

I, Melissa Herren, leave my wonderful backpack down to my brother Gary Little or to the highest bidder (which I'd prefer). Gary, you need a new one.

I, Shawn Butler, leave to my brother Derek who is going to be a freshman, all the troubles I had with my teachers. Also I leave the soccer team to him that he may turn it around.

I, Tayjes Patel, leave these words: "Don't wait until the last minutes."

I, Reina Alvarez, leave some spirit air freshener to the c/o 97, because you stink. Engoron, I leave you a stick of gum, chew on it. To the classes after "96" there is no better. Class of 2000, we leave you the best color, PURPLE!!!

I, Niki Hussein, leave the underclassmen my looks, my hair, my monkey sounds, and my sexy calling. I leave all my teachers my motor mouth and smile. Leventon, I leave you my biceps since yours deflated. Coach, I leave a note, my calves and attitude. Costanza, have my gel.

I, Josh Castro, leave my baseball championship to all the juniors to defend, and some unfinished business on the football field.

RC gets Distinguished School Award

By Rishi Sharma
Staff Writer

It's official! River City is now a 1995-1996 California Distinguished School. This honor, given to 75 of California's vast. number of high schools, was announced on May 1st. Last Friday, Dr. White, Senh Saelee, Mr. Mesquita, and Mike Heather flew to San Diego to receive the award.

On April 9th, the Distinguished School committee visited RC, and recommended us for the award. The committee inspected many aspects of our school, including REACH, Link Crew, the Engineering-Technology-Science Academy, the refurbished facilities, and curriculum. Dr. White is very proud of River City in its latest accomplishment.

It seems that RC will never be able to rest on its laurels. In two years River City will undergo another inspection by the Western Association of Schools and Colleges. This inspection determines the length of accreditation that RC receives.

RC takes AP exams

By Fouzia Fazel
Staff Writer

Twice as many RC students took AP exams as in previous years. If they pass, they will have earned both highschool and college credit. Four new AP courses were offered this year: Government, U.S. History, French and Spanish for a total of seven.

Students who took the AP English exam were Senh Saelee, Andradi Villalobos, Sean High, Leah Christian, Ty Fisher, Raquel Peralta, Rebekah Shubin and Wendy Wickliffe. Shelly Taunk, Andradi Villalobos, Arsalan Yusufzai, and Senh Saelee took calculus. Leah Christian and Sean High took government.

Senh Saelee also submitted a Studio Art portfolio. "It took me a whole year to put my portfolio together," he said. "And it came down to the last minute."

Sean High, who took the French exam, agreed with Mrs. Connolly who said, "C'etait horrible! It was very tough and challenging."

Alonzo Garcia, Mary Lou Lara and Brenda Trujillo took the AP Spanish Exam. Judit Campos, Chris Cardoza, David Clayton, Jessica Honsinger, Luke Lee, Bethany Monroe, Alyssa Murphy, Jason Potnick, Jennifer Lopez-Turner, Sarah Vanderford, Alonzo Garcia, and Qais Wahidi all took the AP US History.

"I tried really hard," said Alonzo Garcia. No doubt he speaks for all of the test takers.

Results will be known in late July or early August. Good luck to all of these bright students!

TASK scores show students improving

Math scores rise, reading scores remain the same

By Rishi Sharma
Staff Writer

RC students might be smarter than you think. New TASK test results for the 1995-96 school year show that freshman and sophomore students have improved in math by one grade level. However, reading scores for RC remain the same as last year.

This year, freshmen are doing math at the tenth grade level. In 1994-95 freshmen were doing math at the ninth grade level, and in 1993-94, freshmen were doing math at the eighth grade level.

Results for the sophomores are similar. This year, sophomore test scores show math being done at the eleventh grade level. In 1994-95, sophomores were doing math at the tenth grade level, and in 1993-94 they were doing math at the ninth grade level.

Ms. Hines, chair of the math department, believes this rise in the test scores is in part a result of "the rise in student expectations, the rigorous curriculum, and the way we in the math department have really worked together so that wherever you go within the math department, you meet the same standards." She also said that the way the math program has changed over the years, including work with technology, a well trained staff, and the replacement of remedial classes with intense tutoring has contributed to the increase. Ms. Hines also said that the fact students are exposed to more standardized tests and are able to use calculators contributed to the increase. Dr. White, RC principal said "I am excited about the upward trend in math scores."

The test scores are not all good news. Reading scores for the both the freshmen and sophomore class remained the same as in 1994-95. However, scores did rise in 1994-95 by .2 points for the freshmen, and .7 points for the sophomores. In a memo to Dr. Miller, Dr. White stated her belief that RC definitely needs to stress reading and continue to address it across the curriculum. One of the programs currently in place to help improve reading scores is Sustained Silent Reading (SSR). SSR has not been in place long enough to know whether it has had a positive impact on RC reading levels.

A perspective of River City

By Rishi Sharma
Staff Writer

As I walk the campus, I often hear students speak of RC as a bad school. Sure, RC has its faults, just like any other school, and anyone who would tell you otherwise is a liar. However, there are a lot of things here at RC that we should feel lucky to have. Something that RC students should realize is how highly thought of RC programs are. Take Link Crew. It is only in its first year, yet schools that have had the program for years were in awe when they were told about some of the things that we have done at RC.

We always hate to blow our horn, but even The Review, RC's own school newspaper, is held in very high regard at different schools. I would even go so far as to say some schools are envious of the fact that we publish in a newspaper, and on full size paper.

Did you know that schools all over have come to RC to see our Career Path programs? So many schools offer very little in vocational education and career planning. Not only do we have a career center, which is the model for many others, but next year we will be one of a few schools to have an Engineering-Technology-Science Academy right on campus.

I'll be the first to admit it. RC has a bad reputation, or at least it once did. A lot of people get apprehensive when I tell them where I am from. However, that has changed a lot. When I travel to other schools or visit with students from other schools, I find that RC really is a unique school.

One of the reasons for this bad reputation was the bad publicity RC got last year from The Sacramento Bee. A lot has changed since those stories were published. Test scores were a major part of the bad publicity. RC student test scores have been rising considerably over the past few years. This year, RC math scores went up a whole grade level for both freshmen and sophomores.

The crown jewel of RC's achievements is probably the curriculum. Very few schools our size are able to offer the amount of classes and different electives RC is able to offer. Next year, new courses will be added to a growing number of vocational electives to help prepare students for their career choices before they even go to college.

RC has its faults here and there, but overall I would have to say RC is a great school. I can't think of any other high school, public or private, that I would rather attend than River City High School, a 1995-1996 California Distinguished School.

OLLAND DISTRICT PROMISES TO EXCEL ANY SECTION OF THE WORLD IN PRODUCTION; CULTIVATION HAS BEEN STARTED ONLY A FEW YEARS YET TODAY CROPS OF ENORMOUS PRIZE ARE BEING PRODUCED ON LAND THAT FOR YEARS PRODUCED ONLY TULES soil, plenty of sunshine moderated by bay breezes, irrigation, are factors that insure profitable crops on the thousands of acres planted about Clarksburg.

from a sea of water that the land for six months of and only a few years ago, Land District of Yolo otherwise known as the promises now to pro- actual wealth, acre for the gold mines of the State their palmiest days.

"Only unbelieveable" is the ight be applied to the dis- now stands as in campari- what it was a few years ago eclamation saved it from an ndation that had existed over a hundred years.

of water there is even now in Holland District of Yolo County, every drop of that water is under ntrol. Every ditch is filled, or half led, or dry, as the land owners de- it, or require it.

Not more than twenty-four inches om the surface water can be found, ater for sub-irrigation that grows ops in such abundance that the has never yet been equalled even in the fertile valley of the Nile.

Through the courtesy of one of the rge property owners in the Nether- nds, or Holland District, the writer aveled up and down the district all last Monday and spent an entire ay viewing what might be termed a rden of production.

Jesse H. Cave, formerly a store- eeper at Clarksburg, is now one of e proud possessors of 150 acres of nd in the district. He is proud of s acquisition and he is destined to ke life easy in his old age, for a ing can be made by any family, a od living, on 20 acres, or even less, Holland Land Company soil.

A peculiar feature of the district is at those who bought the land were ose who knew most about it, while strangers there are few, and a ighborhood has been built up of those who have been neighbors for years in the past.

Verily, it was those who knew the land who bought most, for they knew there could be no such thing as failure on soil so rich as that of the Holland District.

It would be impossible in this article to go into details regarding the district. Suffice it to describe the case of Cave and his partner, Jim Patterson, the hatter, of Sacramento.

Both bought 150 acres of land when the district was opened. They started immediately to plant asparagus and now, after four years of ownership, they have 100 acres of "grass" three years old and producing heavily.

Of their tract of 300 acres, 40 acres of "grass" is two years old and producing and 30 acres are but one year old and just starting to produce, while 130 acres are being planted this year.

Of the producing portion they expect to harvest this spring not less than 20,000 boxes, which is now being shipped mostly to Los Angeles in refrigerator cars under ice at the rate of a carload every other day.

This "grass" is being sold at a rate of 7½ cents per pound and may bring as high as 9 cents per pound later on.

These men harvest their "grass" green, because in some sections asparagus is liked better in the green state than in the white state. All the difference is that the green "grass" is allowed a few days more time to grow than the white "grass." White "grass" is cut as soon as it peeps just above the earth.

"Grass" is cut with a little tool in the shape of a spade with a broad, sharp nose, weighing not more than half a pound. The cutter seeing the "grass" aims to cut underneath the ground about eight or ten inches. After cutting, asparagus is not permitted to rest in the sun. It is taken immediately to the packing house on a sled drawn by a couple of horses and immediately placed in boxes for shipping. To keep it in a moist condition the cut ends are placed on wet moss so that the "grass" does not shrink while on the road.

Many other farmers in the district are now cutting "grass" also, some green and some white, just according to the market in which they expect to dispose of their goods.

By those having a thorough acquaintance with asparagus, the green "grass" is much preferred, although many people like the white "grass" better.

Practically all the "grass" grown in the United States is grown in California, and in all not more than 15,000 acres are devoted to its production. That acreage is being somewhat increased at the present time in the Holland District, but in other sections of the delta district where "grass" has been grown for several years past the acreage is being reduced so that it is estimated that at no time in the future can there be more than 20,000 acres of growing asparagus, yet the demand for the article is continually on the increase.

Before the war an average price was 3 cents per pound, but now canners are glad to get it for 4, 5 and 6 cents per pound.

To grow asparagus, the land must be thoroughly cultivated and, in addition, must be rich in fertilization. During years a growth of tules and a deposit of silt from overflowing water left the Holland District an ideal place for the production of this succulent crop.

But asparagus is not the only crop that grows in profusion in the Holland District. Barley is so productive and grows in such profusion that frequently it is difficult to harvest the crop. It is not unusual for farmers in the Holland District to take off between sixty and sixty-five sacks of barley to the acre. Now, however, more remunerative crops are being planted in the district, such as asparagus, beans, seeds, onions, vegetables and fruits.

Beans are produced all through the Holland District with an average profit of $100 per acre.

Heavy growth of leek seed under irrigation near Clarksburg—a typical scene along the shores of the generous Sacramento River.

The district is surrounded by water, practically an island. On the east, the Sacramento River runs along twenty-two miles of levee. On the west Elk Slough is navigable for boats to convey the products to market.

At Clarksburg, the center of the district and where the headquarters of the Holland Land Company are located there is a large wharf for loading and unloading boats. From this wharf every day are taken vast quantities of produce grown on the tract and here, too, are landed vast quantities of material used in building homes, barns and packing houses. Here, also, are landed great quantities of agricultural implements used by the farmers of the district.

The townsite of Clarksburg, consisting of sixty acres, has been laid out and lots have been sold for future homes. A magnificent park has been laid out and is now being maintained by the Holland Land Company, and Pat Ryan, the genial gardener, has a wealth of floral beauty, brought to perfection with unceasing labor in that park.

A splendid grammar school is now more than half completed within the townsite. This school consists of six large rooms that will be needed very soon in the district, although up to the present time, or until the district was reclaimed, a two-room school was all that was necessary to accommodate the children of the neighborhood.

It is not one section of the Holland District that is fertile and productive. Every acre of the 26,000 acres is of similar quality, but while all of it is not asparagus land, every acre of it is suitable to produce crops of some kind that cannot be equalled in many other sections of the globe.

As proof of the assertion that those who know the district best were those who bought most, a list of names is given below showing confirmation.

A movement is now on foot to build concrete roads through the district. There is one disadvantage under which the farmers labor and that is the road question. During winter rains the roads are soft and frequently impassable. That is only natural in a land that is capable of so much production.

It is the intention of the land owners in the district to bond themselves in the amount of $750,000 for the building of permanent roads so that at any time of the year they may harvest their crops.

Clarksburg is but nine miles from Sacramento. It stands in the center of the district and on the edge of the Sacramento River where there is ample transportation for all crops produced by the farmers.

The list of land owners may be found in the accompanying column.

MEMORIAL from p. 5

In 1995, 19 California peace officers died in the line of duty. They were men and women who dedicated their lives to the protection of California's citizens. They were the people who fought to keep drugs off our streets and criminals out of our neighborhoods; the people who made the most personal commitment to a better world. These were the people who rushed into danger whenever somebody called "911" in the middle of the night.

Yet, when asked how any one of these 19 officers died, I would guess that few of us would be able to describe the incident. Why is that? Here are 19 officers -- real heroes -- whose lives were senselessly lost and whose deaths went largely unmentioned.

On the other hand, we are reminded over and over every time a police officer is suspected of wrongdoing. Images of alleged police misconduct are replayed endlessly, burned into our mind's eye. Law enforcement has its bad apples; every profession does, given the nature of human failings and weaknesses. But the few who fail their profession are certainly not a fair reflection of the overwhelming majority of men and women in California law enforcement.

In eleven months last year, 19 officers lost their lives. There were no swirling TV helicopters, no continual coverage on the nightly news, no street protests or sit-ins by concerned citizen groups, no ultimatums for social justice. No one branded every felon a "cop killer."

Every good cop feels the pain and shame when a fellow law enforcement officer "goes bad." The entire profession re-examines its own methods, training and disciplinary rules to attempt to prevent future problems. Yet such self-criticism is made harder when every cop is painted with the same ugly brush.

This month California again honors its fallen heroes in the annual Peace Officers Memorial Ceremony -- a tribute to those 19 officers we lost last year. For this brief moment we can give back to those who gave so much for us. We can grieve with their families and colleagues. Most important, we can recognize them for what they were -- good cops, fighting society's war on crime. And for this short time, they will receive the attention they deserve.

It happens every May. Families, colleagues, friends and grateful members of the public gather at our state's Capitol to remember the officers who have lost their lives protecting ours. For some of those in attendance, the memories will never fade. Even as they live with the lingering pain of losing a loved one, they carry within themselves the pride of a profession dedicated to protecting others from harm.

We should all take a moment to reflect upon the lives of the 19 peace officers whom we will honor this month. Although they may not have directly impacted your life, their dedication and ultimate sacrifice for others no doubt touches us all. The next time we hear of an incident involving possible misconduct by a police officer, I ask that we remember these 19 officers, and those who have gone before them. They are the officers who define California law enforcement.

TO RESIDENTS AND PAST RESIDENTS OF THE VACATION INN:
IF YOU LIVED AT THE VACATION INN, 1525 MERKLEY AVENUE, WEST SACRAMENTO, AT ANY TIME SINCE JANUARY 25, 1990, READ THIS NOTICE CAREFULLY. IT MAY AFFECT YOUR RIGHTS.

A hearing about a proposed settlement of the lawsuit, Cline et al v. City of West Sacramento, et al, No. 68742, will be held at:

3:00 p.m., June 28, 1996
Department 3 (Judge Steven Mock)
Yolo County Superior Court,
725 Court Street, Woodland, CA 95695
The court will decide if the proposed settlement of this case is fair.

BACKGROUND OF THE CASE

Sandra J. Cline, Jon Deloach and Terri Campagna brought this lawsuit against the City of West Sacramento and its Redevelopment Agency over the Agency's purchase of the Vacation Inn, 1525 Merkely Avenue, West Sacramento, California. Defendants deny that they broke any law. On October 21, 1992, the Court certified part of this action as a class action. Class members include:

All persons who reside or will reside at the Vacation Inn during the pendency of this action or who resided there at any time since January 25, 1990, including persons who stayed at the Vacation Inn for periods of no less than one day or night or greater.

All parties now propose to settle this case.

SETTLEMENT

The proposed settlement would require the Redevelopment Agency to:

1. Pay relocation benefits, including rent subsidies, to the highest ranking 95 families and persons who can be located from the a list of people who lived at the Vacation Inn since January 25, 1990. To find out if your name is on the list of people who may be part of the settlement, call the individuals listed at the bottom of this notice;
2. Build 80 units of affordable housing for seniors;
3. Build 60 units of affordable housing for families and single individuals;
4. Give first priority for the new affordable housing to the highest ranking 140 families and persons who can be located from the list of people who lived at the Vacation Inn since January 25, 1990;
5. Take certain other actions regarding housing and the provision of benefits as listed in the settlement; and
6. Pay attorneys' fees to Plaintiffs' Counsel.

Records show that the people on the list lived at the Vacation Inn some time after January 25, 1990. However, even if you are on the list, you may not be eligible for some or all of the benefits if you:

1. have been convicted of certain felonies;
2. have been arrested for crimes committed at the Vacation Inn;
3. under certain circumstances, left the Vacation Inn after receiving a notice to pay or quit; or
4. have been evicted from certain housing.

Also, you may not get benefits at all if there are other people who can prove they moved out later than you did.

WHAT DO I HAVE TO DO TO FILE A CLAIM?

If you agree with the settlement and you are on the list, and your move out date is correct, you do not need to do anything now. If the settlement is approved by the court, you will receive a notice instructing you how and when to make a claim.

WHAT IF I WANT TO ADD MY NAME TO THE LIST, CHANGE MY MOVE OUT DATE, OR OBJECT TO THE PROPOSED SETTLEMENT?

If you are not on the list and lived at the Vacation Inn at some time since January 25, 1990, OR if your move out date is incorrect, OR if you want to object to all or part of the proposed settlement, you MUST call or write one of the people listed at the bottom of this notice by 5:00 p.m. June 27, 1996, AND appear at the hearing on June 28, 1996 with proof of when you lived at the Vacation Inn. If you want to add your name to the list and you have proof that you helped pay rent at the Vacation Inn, bring that proof to the hearing as well.

Priority for benefits will be based on the date you moved out of the Vacation Inn, so it is important that you let us know if this information is incorrect.

WHAT IF MY ADDRESS CHANGES?

If you move after receiving this notice or if the address this was sent to is wrong, give your name and correct address to either of the persons listed at the bottom of this notice. This is important so that we know where to send future notices or how to get in touch with you if you get any share of the settlement.

WHAT IF I HAVE MORE QUESTIONS?

The pleadings and all other records in this litigation may be examined and copied any time during regular office hours in the office of the Clerk of Court, 725 Court Street, Woodland, California. Copies of the entire settlement are available from the persons listed at the bottom of this notice.

DO NOT CALL OR WRITE TO THE COURT OTHER THAN TO SUBMIT AN OBJECTION TO THE PROPOSED SETTLEMENT OR TO LOOK AT THE FILE.

Teenagers get a (cheap) ticket to ride

From Yolo County Transit Authority

The highly popular "Summer Sizzler" promotion by the Yolo County Transit Authority is back for its fourth year. Once again, the Transit Authority is able to offer reduced fares for YOLOBUS riders aged seventeen and under. Yolo County youth can purchase the YOLOBUS Summer Youth Pass for just ten dollars, and ride all the YOLOBUS regular routes from June 1 to August 31. Cash fares for this age group will be twenty-five cents per ride for the same period.

According to the Transit Authority's Executive Director Terry Bassett, nearly 100,000 young riders utilized the YOLOBUS service during the past three "Summer Sizzler" promotions. "We're introducing many younger riders to transit as an alternative to cars, and for their parents, providing an alternative to the summer taxi."

There are some rules that apply (they're printed on the back of the passes and are also available on the buses) that all bus riders are expected to follow, and teenagers should carry proof of age. Also, kids under age eight years old should ride with someone at least twelve years old, and if you're planning on going out of town, you should get your parents' permission first. Passes are good only on YOLOBUS, and are not transferable.

Passes are on sale at all the city halls and at the Transit Authority office at 350 Industrial Way, Woodland, or you can order a pass by mail. Call 661-0816 for pass information; call 666-2877 in Woodland or Davis, or (800) 371-3877 for bus schedule information. Schedules are available at all city halls and libraries, on the buses, many other places around the cities, and at the Transit Authority office.

This promises to be an exciting program offering youth all sorts of mobility opportunities for summer. Have a great summer vacation and use the transit system to its full advantage.

home game at Bryte Park on June 9, said Cindy Tuttle, a member of the West Sacramento City Council.

The team belongs to the California Mexican American Baseball League, which has a very high level of play, said Tuttle. The league is open to all players -- not just Hispanics.

11 of the team's members live in West Sacramento, and "Los Guantes" just signed Randy Byard, who set a record for the most home runs in a single season at River City High School this year.

Tuttle reports that the team is managed by West Sacramentan Bill Virgen, and previously had to play its home games in Stockton.

No team in the league has been based in the Sacramento area since the 1970s.

"The American Legion (baseball league) cuts off at 18 years old," she added, "and this league gaves young people a chance to continue in baseball and not just softball."

"It's a very historic league," she added.

The team is sponsored by El Sombrero restaurant in West Sacramento.

Yolo County Sheriff Bob Martinez (a West Sacramento resident) will throw out the first pitch in the June 9 game, which is set to begin at 1:15 p.m. following opening ceremonies at 12:30 p.m. There is no charge for spectators at the Bryte Park field.

Students participating in GSMS graduation ceremony must attend practices on Friday, June 28

A graduation ceremony for 1996 8th grade Golden State Middle School students (all tracks) will be held on Friday, June 28, from 10 to 11:30 a.m. Students will go to first and second periods that day. Yellow track students will meet in the library. All students will pick up certificates after the ceremony and go home.

The eighth grade activity trip to Paradise Island will be on Thursday, June 27, from 12:30 to 4 p.m. for all tracks. A bus will pick-up students at 12:30 in front of the school.

Graduation practice will be Thursday, June 27, from 9:30 a.m. to 12 p.m. The practice is mandatory for all students. A no-show for practice means a no-show for graduation. Yellow track students can ride the regular bus and wait in the library until practice begins.

An awards assembly for all tracks will be Wednesday, June 26, from 7 to 9 p.m.

The week in local government

The next meeting of the City's Hazardous Materials Advisory Commission will be Thursday night, May 30, at 6:30 p.m. It will be held in the Training Room at Fire Station #41 (132 15th Street). Peter Deacon of Rio Linda Chemical will be discussing their operations. The Hazmat Advisory Commission strongly urges the public to attend these meetings, and encourages local business participation as well.

A meeting of the West Sacramento Housing Advisory Commission will take place on June 3 at 6 p.m. in city council chambers, 2101 Stone Blvd. in West Sacramento.

Agenda items include the extension of contract with Cochlan and Associates for management of Margaret McDowell Manor; the amendment of contract with Yolo County Housing Authority for replacement of the 76 existing housing authority public units; and new construction of senior housing at Margaret McDowell Manor.
